¹ There is a film (a.k.a. blooming), fairly severe, that covers almost the entire page. It is due to sand, moisture, or salt that was not successfully removed when the leaf was put into the plate. It can be removed, but it will return if so. In this case, the salt crystals can be plainly seen in the glass. We will shoot an archival image of the page with the blooming intact and an edited image so that the blooming disappears. The manuscript itself will not be edited.
